

Simple Average

There's a customer that always comes to a store and buys 6 different products, but the problem is that he always takes too much time choosing and trying the products because he needs that the average of the products gives an exact number.

Input

As input it will be given to you 6 lines with the values of each product

Output

Your program should give as result the average value of the total of elements.

Example

Input:

3

7

5

2

1

6

Output:

4